A Message From the Fire Department

Are we experts yet?

With all of the recent emergencies the residents of Santa Barbara have suffered, are we at the point of understanding how we respond to disasters? Yes we are! Many things worked well during the Jesusita Fire:

1. Evacuations were done quickly, orderly, with no loss of life, and no injuries to citizens.
2. Road closures were respected and the public heeded the call to stay off the impacted roads allowing public safety personnel safe access to fire areas needing attention.
3. We also had timely support from our neighboring Fire and Police departments from around the State.
4. Water rationing was observed by residents and businesses, which provided ample supply for fighting fires.

Does practice make perfect?

Let's continue to be vigilant before the next emergency strikes! Make sure you have:

1. An evacuation plan - Where will you go? Do all members of your family know to meet you there? What will you take with you? Can you provide care for your pets?
2. Create a family reunification plan. If you are separated from your family do you have a meeting place, where all family members can meet at a later time?
3. A battery or hand-crank radio. Do you know what radios stations to listen to?
4. A disaster preparedness kit that includes important documents, medications, food, water, and clothing for the first 72 hours.
